Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from Some Little Cooks and What They Did So we thought we could have some sandwiches, cut the bread very thin and spread very evenly with peanut butter. And could Bridget cut them with that little heart cutter you used for your Valentine party? Wouldn't they be lovely? Mama laughed as she said, I think my little daughters will make good housekeepers, as they have planned some very nice refreshments. Now when do you propose to have this wonderful party? Saturday afternoon will be all right. Of course mama said, Yes, and soon some tiny invitations were sent to Marion's and Jennie's dolls. It seemed a long while from Wednesday till Saturday, but it quickly passed. Saturday opened sunny and bright, and the little girls were up early, eagerly waiting for Bridget to say she was ready for them to help her, and it was a welcome call when she came in and said, Where are my little cooks? I am ready for them. Carrie was given the eggs to beat, while Cora mixed the sugar and butter together thoroughly. Their little arms ached some before the work was completed, but neither would give up until Bridget said it was all right, then she finished the cake-making and soon it was in the oven.
